Legacy Building Specialties Announces Kitchen and Bath Design Center to Open in Winter Park

Specialty Shop Will Provide Convenient Access to Products and Services for your Home

Granby, CO (October 20, 2008)—Legacy Building Specialties is scheduled to open their new design studio, located at 78491 U.S. Highway 40 in The Village Center in Winter Park in November, with completion of the new showroom by early December in an effort to help customers by expanding their services and increase visibility. The new studio will offer specialized kitchen and bath design services and will highlight a sampling of products available in the main showroom in Granby. The smaller-scale location will provide an intimate, design environment and convenient location for contractors, homeowners, and businesses to meet with the designers to review plans, pick up samples, and schedule appointments in the Granby showroom.

“The new design shop, located in the same center as The Untamed Grill, will be a time-saving option for existing clients, contractors, and businesses in and around Winter Park, and a competitive advantage to attract new business with a storefront on Main Street in Winter Park,” explains Tom Pierro, owner of Legacy Building Specialties. “The design studio in Winter Park will exhibit a small sampling of our premium product offering and entice clients to drive a few miles down the road into Granby to experience one of the finest showrooms in Colorado,” adds Pierro. In order to provide the highest level of service, Pierro recommends that clients and business representatives schedule appointments with the designers in advance. The purpose of the design studio is to provide easy access to the design team in conjunction with individual attention.

The new location, staffed by current employees, will tease the minds of those who stop in with a display of a select group of products. The products showcased at the Winter Park location will be the same high-quality cabinetry, countertops, appliances, windows, doors, decorative hardware, fireplaces, and outdoor kitchens that are displayed in the main showroom in Granby but on a smaller scale. By adding a second location, clients and business partners can meet with the designers in a smaller, business-friendly environment in a location closer to them.

As more home and property owners decide to renovate their existing properties, the new studio will be a convenient location for the up-valley residents to preview the full Legacy line-up of premium products for their kitchens, bathrooms, windows, and doors. “We understand that there is a finite amount of time available. Many of our clients don’t have the time or the desire to manage their kitchen remodel or install a new front door, window, or fireplace, and that’s where our services come in handy,” says Pierro. “We are the single point of contact and can manage the entire project,” continues Pierro. Legacy also provides delivery and installation of every product they sell.

Visit Legacy Building Specialties new location at 78491 U.S. Highway 40 in The Village Center in Winter Park Monday – Thursday from 10 AM – 4 PM or by appointment. Or, visit the main showroom at 17 Ten Mile Drive in Granby to check out their full product line-up. “Shop at our stores, where we value your business,” promises Pierro.
